Charlie ready to marry... again!

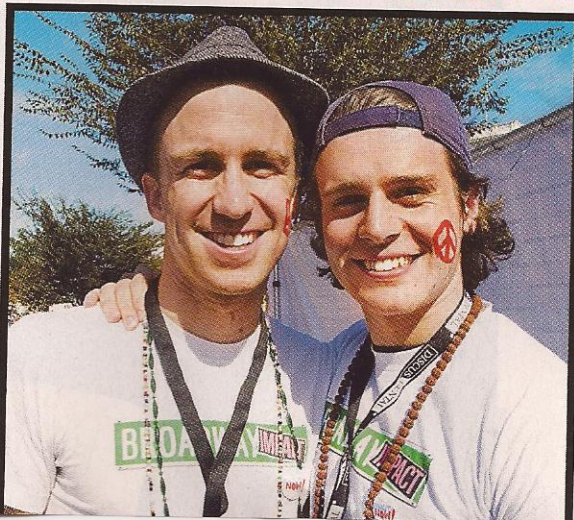

Charlie has been seeing Angelina for almost two months — while he's been in rehab.

Even though Charlie Sheen is not legally separated from his wife, Brooke Mueller, he's already talking marriage with his new girlfriend, Angelina Tracy. According to a friend, Charlie has given the sexy lingerie model a 2-carat pre-engagement commitment ring, along with a promise to triple the size of the diamond once he's legally able to propose marriage. Though Charlie rep denies the story, his pal explains, "Charlie wants to fast-track his divorce from Brooke so that he can marry Angelina right away," adding, "Charlie has a history of falling for women quickly. Let's just say he has bought a lot of rings."

Glee star's real-life love

On Glee, Jonathan Groff plays Lea Michele's new scene-stealing boyfriend. But off-camera, he's got a hunky boyfriend of his own: actor Gavin Creel, an insider tells In Touch. "They know each other through the Broadway community," says a friend. "Jonathan played the role of Claude in Hair in Central Park, and Gavin replaced him." Gavin (left) also played the same character Jonathan had originated in Broadway's Spring Awakening, where Jonathan co-starred with... Lea Michele.

Gaga's family drama

The superstar singer is fighting with her parents over who will control her little sister's future

Despite maintaining close ties to her family, Lady Gaga, 24, is battling with her mom and dad over her little sister, Natali. The 18-year-old, who just graduated from high school, is eager to mimic her big sister and pursue a pop career. "Natali asked to come along on Gaga's tour as an apprentice, singing backup," says an insider. But Gaga's parents, Joseph and Cynthia, are dead set against Natali giving up college for music. "They are worried that Natali will follow in Gaga's workaholic footsteps," the insider says. In New York on a tour break in early June, Gaga and her parents had a very public argument over dinner at a restaurant. "Gaga walked out after a screaming match with her dad. Natali was in tears. Gaga is not speaking to her father, and friends are worried that with her main support system shaken, Gaga could wind up an emotional wreck."

Aspiring singer Natali (below) made an appearance in her sister's "Telephone" video.

Lindsay's new weight woes

Now that she's been forced to wear a SCRAM alcohol-monitoring bracelet, Lindsay Lohan, 24, has replaced booze with food — and she's really gaining weight! Lindsay's been wearing the bracelet on her ankle since May, and it's changed her lifestyle: "Lindsay would drink instead of eat, and although booze has empty calories, she was eating so little that she stayed thin," a friend reveals. But instead of being alarmed, Lindsay's loved ones think the new weight is a good sign. "She is hardly what anyone would call fat, but she is noticeably bigger than she used to be," says the pal. "Everyone thinks it's a positive change. She's starting to look much more healthy."

Renée's coffee addiction pays off

Renée Zellweger has achieved the highest reward from Starbucks — and then some. The 41-year-old coffee lover is photographed carrying beverages from the ubiquitous chain almost daily and even once rewarded a paparazzi with a $100 Starbucks gift card for letting her know her parking meter was about to expire! So to show their appreciation, Starbucks executives have sent Renée a special platinum card usually reserved for their corporate bigwigs. “Renée gets steep discounts and tons of perks thanks to the card,” a friend laughs. “Instead of it being a wake-up call to reassess how much coffee she is actually drinking, Renée is so proud of it that she shows it off like it’s her Academy Award.”

Skyline star's search for lost mom

For the past 20 years, actress Tanya Newbould has been on a quest to find her biological parents. And she hopes her new hit film, Skyline, will bring her closer — if they recognize her when they see her on-screen! Tanya, who was adopted at birth in England, has figured out her birth name, Rebecca Rattray, but still can't locate her folks. “I always pictured being on Oprah and having the reunion,” Tanya tells In Touch. When she was a child, her adoptive parents left the U.K. and settled in Michigan. “As great as they were, let’s just say I have abandonment issues,” she explains. “I have a 2-year-old daughter now. I can’t imagine her hearing my voice the day she was born — and then never hearing it again.”
